A Name in the Sand.

BY GEORGE D. PRENTICE.

Alone I walked the ocean strand,
A pearly shell was in my hand;
I stooped, and wrote upon the sand
My name, the year and day.
As onward from the spot I passed
One lingering look behind I cast—
A wave came rolling high and fast,
And washed my lines away.

And so methought 'twill quickly be
With every mark on earth from me!
A wave of dark oblivion's sea
Will sweep across the place
Where I have trod the sandy shore
Of time, and be to me no more;
Of me, my day, the name I bore,
To leave no track or trace.

And yet with Him who counts the sands,
And holds the water in His hands,
I know a lasting record stands
Inscribed against my name,
Of all this mortal part has wrought,
Of all this thinking soul has thought,
And from these fleeting moments caught,
For glory or for shame.

The Story-Teller.

LOST TO THE WORLD.

In the Summer of the year 1815, or thereabout, a wealthy merchant of New York took charge of a little boy who had been left an orphan. The parents of the little boy had been actors of some slight celebrity in the theatres of the United States; but dying within a short period of each other, they left behind them, in a state of the completest destitution, three young children. The eldest of these was called Edgar. He was a handsome boy about six years of age, with a quick eye and active spirit, and a remarkably intelligent countenance. The merchant of whom we speak had known the parents of the child; and out of pity for its helplessness he and his wife, who had been blessed with no children, adopted it as their own.

How happily the ardent boy passed his days in the house of his benefactor; how he was beloved by those two childish people; how he became the favorite of a large circle; how, in the strength of their great affection the merchant and his wife brought him to England, so that nothing might be wanted to make him a gentleman in mind as well as person; how he spent some four or five pleasant years under the care and teaching of a reverend gentleman near London; how he came back again to the city of his birth to finish his education; and how he was generally looked upon as the rich merchant's heir, it would take long to tell.

But we would linger on this portion of our story; fain dwell upon his precocious wit and aptness for learning; fain make much of his feats of strength and agility—his ease and grace on horseback, his dexterity in fence and race stream, and his success in all that seemed to promise for him a brilliant career. But the truth must be told, no matter how unwilling the teller. He was sent to the college of Charlottesville, amply provided with money. In those days dissipation among the students of colleges was unhappily but too common; and among the most dissolute and extravagant, the wildest rufflers of the town, the hardest drinkers and most daring gamblers, there was ever to be found one more wild and desperate than them all—and that one was Edgar, now a good-looking, free-hearted young fellow of eighteen. Friends advised with him, and he made fair promises in plenty; tutors remonstrated, and he declared that he would amend and win the highest honors yet; companions tempted and wine allured, and he embraced the filthy siren, and so fell. Instead of coming home from his university with honors, he was summarily expelled.

One would think that disgrace so public would have broken his proud spirit; but it did not. Because his benefactor refused to pay the gambling debts he contracted at college, the wilful young man wrote him a violent and abusive letter, quitted his house, and soon afterward left his country with the avowed intention of joining the Greeks, who were at that time in the midst of their struggle with the Turks. He never reached his destination, and nothing was known or heard of him for more than a year. At last, however, he was found, and in circumstances which left no doubt as to the manner in which his European experience had been brought. One morning the American minister, at St. Petersburg, was summoned to save a countryman of his own from the penalties incurred through a drunken debauch.—He came in time to rescue the prodigal Edgar from a prison, and through his influence he was set at liberty and enabled to return to the United States.

The first to greet him on his landing was his old patron, the merchant, who was now alone in the world, for his wife had died while Edgar was away. But he took the wanderer to his arms and led him back to the quiet home he had quitted so ungraciously. The question then arose as to what should be done for the youth; and on his expressing a wish to become a soldier, interest was made with the merchant's friends, and Edgar was entered as a scholar in the military academy at New York. For a little time all went on well; the young cadet was assiduous in his studies, became the favorite of the mess, and was looked upon by the officers and professors as one of their most promising pupils. But alas, and alas! the old habits of dissipation were too strong to be given up all at once. He neglected his duties; he drank to excess; he disobeyed orders; he openly sneered at the regulations of the academy—and, in ten months from his matriculation, he was cashiered.

Disgraced and humiliated, where could the wretched man find refuge but in the home of his adopted father? Thither, then, he went, and was again received with open arms. During Edgar's stay at the academy the merchant had married again to a lady some years younger than himself. Time passed on; but just as the sun of happiness seemed about to shine once more upon him, a quarrel took place between Edgar and the lady, which severed forever all ties of friendship between the merchant and his protege. Another circumstance which is scarcely fit for mention here, was hinted at, and which, if true, throws a dark shade upon the character of Edgar. Whatever the cause, however, the merchant and his adopted son parted in anger, never to meet again, and when the former died, the latter shared no portion of his wealth.

Again thrown upon the world by his own misconduct, the young man tried his hand in a field common to young men, and wrote several political pieces and articles in the American magazines. These were so well received that he was almost tempted to believe that he could obtain a living by literature. But his old habits returning, he despaired of success in his new avocation, and enlisted as a private soldier in the United States Army. He was soon recognized by a former companion in the Military Academy, and great interest began to be felt for him among the officers It was proposed to buy a commission for the talented and handsome young man; but just as his friends began to rally round him, and just as their plans seemed about to prosper, he deserted.

For more than two years the world knew nothing of his whereabouts, and it may be, had almost forgotten him.

In 1833, however, the proprietors of an American magazine offered two prizes for the best poem and tale which should be suitable to their pages. Numerous manuscripts were sent for competition, and a day was appointed on which the arbitrators should meet to judge of the merits of the various productions. Almost the first manuscript that was opened claimed attention from the remarkable beauty and distinctness of the handwriting. One of the arbitrators read a page or two and was charmed. He called the attention of his friends to the tale, and they were so much pleased with it that it was read aloud from beginning to end, and all admitted that it was worthy the highest prize. The "confidential envelope" was opened—a Latin motto was discovered. No other tales were read, and the award was immediately published. But where to find the author, that the prize money might be paid? The publishers and arbitrators had not long to wait. In the evening following the announcement, a young man came to the office to claim the prize. He was pale and thin, even to ghastliness, and his whole appearance bespoke dissipation, want and illness. A well-worn coat, buttoned up to the chin, concealed the want of a shirt, and imperfect, wretched boots discovered the absence of stockings. But he looked a gentleman, nevertheless; for his face and hands, though haggard and attenuated, were clean and spotless; his hair was well arranged, his eye was bright with intelligence, and his voice and bearing were those of a scholar. The publishers and arbitrators were interested extremely. They inquired into his history, and finally offered him employment on the magazine for which the tale had been written.

A little money judiciously applied soon altered the appearance of the young man, and in a short time he took his post as second editor of a monthly magazine, with the means and position of a gentleman.

Now here was an opportunity of retrieving his lost character. Here were friends ready not only to overlook the past, but to assist in making his future calm and free from care. Here was a public ready to listen to his teachings, and a patron ready to reward his labors. For a little while all went on well, and those who knew him began to congratulate themselves upon the happy change. Those who before admired his genius were beginning to respect his integrity. He was happy and successful in his new avocation. He married a young and beautiful girl, his cousin; he found for himself a cottage, which the care, economy, and gentle temper of his wife converted into a home, and he was beginning to be a happy man. It would be well if our story could end here; but, oh for human frailty! oh for good resolutions made without prayer to God! oh for principles which he assists not! the young husband of that fair young wife fell back again into evil courses, and forfeited the respect of employers, and the sympathy of friends, through his devotion to the accursed bottle.

It were a weary tale to tell how often he repented, and was forgiven; how he passed from the editorship of one magazine to that of another; how he went from State to State and from city to city a hard-working, aspiring, sanguine, talented man, bearing about him the curse of irresolution, never constant but to the "seductive and dangerous besetment" of strong drink; how friends advised with him, and publishers remonstrated; how at one time he had so far conquered his propensity as to call himself, in a letter to a friend, "a model of temperance and other virtues;" and how, at another, he forfeited the occupation which was the sole dependence of his little family by frequent relapses into his old disgraceful habits; how he committed, under the excitement of intoxication, faults and excesses to which no gentleman would plead guilty; how he borrowed money of his friends without the means or intention of returning it; how he forfeited the esteem, even while his talents commanded the admiration of the public; how he succeeded in bringing many literary speculations into life which his vicious habits and inattention to business murdered in their youth; how he became a confirmed drunkard, with only now and then a fitful hour or so in which to throw off on paper the vagaries of a mind rich in learning and imaginative fancies; how his young wife died broken-hearted, and how he became so reduced as to be able no longer to make an appearance among his friends; how his wife's mother, constant to his falling fortunes, and ever anxious to conceal his vices, went with his MSS. from office to office, and from publisher to publisher, in search of the means to support him; how for a little while he shook off the lethargy of intoxication, and again appeared in the polite circles of New York; how he was caressed, and feted, and congratulated; how the efforts of his pen were sought by rival publishers; how he was engaged to be married a second time to a beautiful young woman, and how the engagement was finally broken off through his return to pernicious habits. It were a weary tale indeed.

The melancholy story of this man's life was soon to close—the golden thread to be rudely snapped asunder—and by his own hand. He had partly recovered from his dangerous courses, and was engaged in delivering lectures in different towns in the United States. They were well attended, and it was with something like renewed confidence that the well-wishers of the lecturer watched his conduct, which was now distinguished by extreme sobriety.—He even appeared to have renewed his youth and strength; and it was with pleasure that his friends again received him into their houses. At one of these he met with a lady with whom he had been formerly acquainted. Their friendship was renewed, and they were engaged to be married. Everything seemed to promise well; the dawn of a better day appeared; and reformation, so long in coming, seemed to have come at last.—But it was not to be. On a sunny afternoon in October, in the year 1849, Edgar set out for New York, to fulfill a literary engagement, and prepare for his marriage.

He arrived at Baltimore, where he gave his luggage to a porter, with directions to convey it to the railway station. In an hour he would set out for Philadelphia. Well, he would take a glass before he started—for refreshment's sake, that was all. Oh, fatal hour! In the tavern he met with some old acquaintances, who invited him to join with them. In a moment all his good resolutions—home, duty, bride, honor—were forgotten; and, ere the night had well set in he was in a state of filthy intoxication. Insanity ensued; he was carried to a public hospital; and, on the night of Sunday, the 7th of October, he died a raving madman, without a friend or a child beside his pillow. He was only thirty-eight years old when this last dreadful scene of his life-tragedy was enacted.

Not a single circumstance here related, not a solitary event here recorded, but happened to Edgar Allen Poe.

Reading for the Million.

The "Science" of Spiritualism.

On page 359 of the last volume of the Scientific American, we presented some of the teachings of science regarding spiritualism; to day we further elucidate the subject by brief allusions to some of the facts in the history of this latest epidemic of superstition.

It broke out about twenty five years ago, and the manifestations were popularly known as Rochester knockings or spirit rappings. The first mediums were three sisters; their name was Fox. They invented the raps, the rap language, and a good part of the spiritual lingo. They originated the seance, and drove a lively business. Spiritualism speedily became a recognized institution; there was no lack of mediums; notoriety and money were the substantial incentives; people, it is said, are fond of humbug, and pay more liberally for it than for the necessaries of life. The majority of people, as at the present day, looked upon spiritualism as a supremely silly thing; the scientific world treated it with ridicule or with a silence inspired by disgust and contempt. There were investigations; and although many of them were very foolish, the rapping trick was fairly exposed. The raps were traced to the persons of the Fox girls.—The mechanism of the raps was concealed and protected by the defences of womanhood; to the modest investigator the girls' skirts were barriers more formidable than stone walls. Had women dressed like men, there surely could have been no spirit rappings, and probably no spiritualism; we commend the fact to Herr Teufelsdroeck, the great philosopher of clothes, and we shall look for a discussion of it in a future edition of his "Sartor Resartus." Of the devices employed by the early mediums, the most elaborate and successful was that of a bar of lead suspended at its center by an elastic cord attached to and operated by the leg; of course this was available only to women, and the men were obliged to resort to something else.

The devotees appeared in swarms, and at the very beginning, and with the same capacity of swallowing as those of the present day; let a jackass bray in the presence of your genuine spiritualist, and, at a hint from his medium, he hears therein only the gentle and loving voice of his dead grandmother. The early exposures counted for little among the faithful; a thousand bogus raps, they said, could not disturb their faith in the one that they knew to be genuine. Also the theory was invented at a very early day that there are wicked spirits, which make honest mediums cheat and lie.

Thus the Rochester knockings became modern spiritualism, with a vitality and diffusiveness comparable to those of the Canada thistle. From the ridiculous beginning of what, in its inception, was probably an innocent freak of a little girl, we have to-day a superstition which will make the nineteenth century memorable for all time.

Spiritualism, as an ism or theory, was soon perfected. But the charlatanry, by which it is mainly kept alive, depends upon juggling tricks which may be modified and improved. For jugglery, like all human arts, is improvable, and is governed by the laws of evolution. The raps grew into a thousand and one modified forms. Some of the new tricks, like the spirit speaking and writing, and planchette, were too thin, and are retained only among the most saturated of the devotees, while those that had the strength of real merit of ingenuity, like the Davenports' cabinet and rope tying, have maintained the popularity. At last, and we wish we could believe it the final culmination of such things, we have the spirit meterialization. The materialization trick was invented by a medium of this city, named Gordon, about two years ago. His exhibition was somewhat artistic, and is worthy of a description. A curtain of mosquito netting, stretched across the room, separated the operator and his paraphernalia from the spectators; the netting served to protect the medium from intrusion, and also to give a more ghostly appearance to the objects exhibited. In the middle of the spiritual sanctum was erected a gorgeous altar or throne, about which Gordon, arrayed in a priestly robe, incanted or chasseed during the performance. The light was turned down to that faintness in which ghosts and spirits love to walk abroad.—Gordon makes his right arm invisible by drawing over it a black cloak. He raises this arm away from and at the side of his body, holding in his right hand a common paper mask or false face, such as the children get for their amusement, at a cost of five or ten cents each. Then he gently moves the mask through the air, or ducks it or bobs it up and down, etc. The performance is repeated with variations, other masks and other motions, for an hour or two. Some of the masks are a little dressed up by means of a white handkerchief thrown over a part or dangling from the lower end; in such simple ways is an old lady with a white cap, or a baby in a long dress, constructed; a bride is got up by placing a gauze veil in front of the mask. Gordon's repertoire of masks was extensive; he was able to bring up the spirits of men, women, and babies of all races of mankind.

From the front of the netting the view, especially to the eyes of the devotee, was impressive. Gordon was a solemn great high priest, or head center; and in response to his incantation, the spirits of the departed, as life like as if they were flesh and blood, appeared at his side. The materialized spirits were often recognized. It was a common thing to hear, from the crowd of eager spectators, sighs and sobs, and such expressions as "Is that you, Jane?" "Is it my grandmother?" "Is your name Smith?" "It is my darling Robbie; are you happy?" To all of which, through Gordon's skillful manipulation of the masks, came the appropriate responses. But Gordon's career as a materializer lasted only a few weeks. One evening, in the midst of the performance, a gentleman of the audience leaped over an intervening table, dodged Gordon's confederate, dashed through the mosquito netting and had Gordon securely in his arms. Gordon was thus caught in the act; he held a mask in his hand, and others was taken from the folds of his robe and other places.

In our next article, we shall give further particulars concerning other forms of "spiritual materializations."—Scientific American.

Around the Fireside.

The Mother's Grave.

"Father, awake—the storm is loud,
The rain is falling fast;
Let me go to my mother's grave,
And screen it from the blast.
She cannot sleep—she will not rest,—
The wind is roaring so;
We prayed that she might lie in peace—
My father let us go."

"Thy mother sleeps too firm a sleep
To heed the wind that blows;
There are angel-charms that hush the noise
From reaching her repose.
Her spirit, in dreams of the blessed land,
Is sitting at Jesus' feet;
Child, nestle thee in mine arms and pray
Our rest may be as sweet."

The Test of Prayer.

A curious case, which is intended to combat Professor Tyndal's idea of testing the efficacy of prayer, is found in the story of a dissenting exhorter in England. This man acquired considerable fame, and he attracted the confidence of a lady who heard him. After his sermon she went to him to relate an incident of personal experience which, as she thought, might afford him exhortations. The preacher listened to her with peculiar interest and in great excitement; and, when she had finished, he requested her, as a special favor, not to repeat the circumstance until he should come round again. It was some time after that the preacher visited the locality, and found the same lady in his audience. As a conclusion to his sermon on the value of prayer, he said that, a few years before, a lady living in an out-of-the-way place, in an old-fashioned house, and almost alone, in the wing of which her bed-room was situated, discovered upon retiring to her room at midnight that a man was concealed under her bed. She was afraid to go out lest the burglar should suspect that she was going to call for help, and so attack her. She took out her Bible and read the parable of the Prodigal Son. Then she kneeled down at her bedside and prayed aloud. She prayed for those who had been exposed to temptation, for the outcasts and the wrong doers. She begged that she might be spared from peril during the night. She asked that mercy might be vouchsafed to all who repented.

Having concluded her earnest and eloquent prayer she retired. The burglar came from under the bed and said to her: "I mean you no harm, ma'am; I am going to leave the house, and I thank you for your prayer." He then went away, and the lady soon heard him jump out of the window to the lawn below. "The good woman of whom I have told you," added the exhorter, in a broken voice, "is with us now, and the sinner to whom her simple womanly prayer was shame, remorse, penitence, and a future of repentant expiation, is he who here confesses himself to you and his Maker."

The story is an affecting one, and no doubt true.

Unconscious Influence.

It is said that among the high Alps at certain seasons the traveler is told to proceed very quietly, for on the steep slopes overhead the snow hangs so evenly balanced that the sound of a voice, or the report of a gun, may destroy the equilibrium and bring down an immense avalanche that will overwhelm everything in ruin in its downward path. And so about our way there may be a soul in the very crisis of its moral history, trembling between life and death, and a mere touch or shadow may determine its destiny. A young lady, who was deeply impressed with the truth, and was ready, under a conviction of sin, to ask, "What must I do to be saved?" had all her solemn impressions dissipated by the unseemly jesting of a member of the church by her side, as she passed out of the sanctuary. Her irreverent and worldly spirit cast a repellent shadow on that young lady not far from the kingdom of God. How important that we should always and everywhere walk worthy of our high calling as Christians.

Let us remember that we are always casting the shadow of our real life upon some one; that somebody is following us, as John followed Peter into the sepulcher. Happy if, when all the influences of life flow back and meet us at the judgment, we can lift up clean hands and spotless robes and say, "I am pure from the blood of all men!" Happy then to hear even one soul saying to us out of the great multitude, that following the shadow of our Christian life and devotion, he found Jesus and Heaven.—T. Stork.

Happiness.

It is a false opinion that happiness is not now to be realized, but only to come hereafter. It is in contradiction to God's holy word, as we believe we are blessed now with all things that are really good for us. Yet there are persons who think that when some particular grievance is removed they shall be happy. No! you will be as far from happiness as you are now. This is the folly and weakness of the mind, which vainly anticipates happiness from earthly changes. But, on the other hand, as time passes by and under all circumstances, supposing that we have the knowledge of the truth and are living in holiness and in the love of God, we may have days of heaven upon the earth. Lady Elizabeth Hastings said to the Countess of Huntingdon: "Since I have known the gospel I have been as happy as an angel." That one sentence was the means of the conversion of Lady Huntingdon, afterward the friend of Whitefield and the founder of chapels all over England. Who can estimate the number and importance of the effects which followed that change of heart and life?—N. Y. Observer.

Three Hints Worth Knowing.

1. Never attempt to do anything that is not right. Just so surely as you do, you will get into trouble. Sin always brings sorrow sooner or later. If you even suspect that anything is wicked, do it not until you are sure that your suspicions are groundless.

2. When you do attempt anything that is right, go through with it. Be not easily discouraged. Yield not to sloth and sleep and fickleness. To resist all these will not be easy, but you feel that you have done right when you get through.

3. Do not waste your money. Perhaps you have but very little. Besides helping to spread the gospel, buy some good books and read them well. A good book is one of the best things in the world. If you cannot buy as many as you need, borrow from others and return them safe and sound. Never let a book lie where it may be injured.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Call of the State Committee.

The Republicans of the State of Pennsylvania are hereby requested to assemble by their delegates in State Convention at noon on, Wednesday, the 26th day of May, 1875, in the Fulton Opera House, at the city of Lancaster, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor and State Treasurer. Each Representative and Senatorial District will be entitled to the same representation as it has under the present apportionment for Senators and Representatives in the Legislature.

RUSSELL ERRETT, Chairman.
A. WILSON NORRIS, Secretary.

☞ The State Convention occurring so much earlier than necessary, the County Committee will have to be called together to select two delegates to the Convention.

☞ The Brooklyn Scandal broke down, for a day or two, last week, owing to the exhaustion of a juror. It is moving off again, this week, at the usual snail-like pace.

☞ The Civil Rights Bill is now a law, and we have not heard of any Democrat having to marry a negro yet, but then we do not know what a day may bring forth.

☞ The Anti-Monopoly Convention, which assembled at Harrisburg, on the 3d inst., was composed of about 256 delegates. It adjourned to arrange for another Convention about the first of July.

☞ Jay Gould, the New York Stock Gambler and general railroad manipulator, has succeeded in getting control of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. This scoundrel ought to be outlawed.

☞ Andy Johnston is trump once more in Washington. He is a strange illustration of the ups and downs which public men have to pass through whose walks are not altogether straight.

☞ The bill repealing the Local Option Law passed the House of Representatives finally, by a vote of 124 to 51. It has been referred to the Committee on Vice and Immorality in the Senate, where it will be allowed to slumber.

☞ The vote on the Bounty Bill, in the United States Senate, last week, ought to satisfy the soldiers. The Democrats havn't changed a particle. They were "fornenst" the soldier during the war and there is where you find them to-day.

☞ Alas, poor Democracy! The last Congress passed the Civil Rights Bill, then the Force Bill, and, to cap the climax, as it were, placed a tax of ninety cents a gallon additional on whisky! This was the straw that broke the camel's back.

☞ John Mitchell, who was elected from Tipperary, Ireland, to a seat in the House of Commons, and refused admission to his seat, has been re-nominated by the Tipperary people. With Keneally and Mitchell John Bull appears to have his hands full.

☞ The Democrats have resolved to hold their State Convention, at Erie, on the 8th of September next. There appears to be some sense in holding a political Convention in September. There is abundance of time for making a canvass from that time until the time fixed for the election.

☞ Gen. Fitz John Porter has came to the surface again. The Democrats have had an opportunity to reward him and they have not hesitated to do so. They have made him Commissioner of Public Works in that Democratic Paradise known as New York City. Fitz deserves this recognition at their hands. We like this trait of gratitude which pervades the breast of the average Democrat.

☞ Why does the Legislature continue to publish the Legislative Record? It reaches us, in packages of half a dozen of copies, three or four days after the debates it reports have taken place. Why depend upon it, when the daily papers bring daily reports? There never was, in our opinion, a more stupendous fraud. If the debates cannot be placed upon the desks of members each morning, we cannot see the use of this humbug.

☞ The editor of the New York Tribune is generally spoken of as "Jay Gould's young man." Who would have thought, that so soon after the death of the great and good Greeley, the individual who would presume to wear his mantle, would be so contemptuously sneered at? There appears to be only a step from the "tapmost towering height" of fame to the bottom of the muddy pool from which contempt is hooked up.

☞ The editor of a Democratic paper intimates that at least one Democrat in the Legislature needs a dictionary worse than "Smull's Hand Book." We haven't a particle of doubt that there are a number of that class in the Legislature. We would not be surprised if some of them commenced the name of Jesus with a little g. We have heard of the like before now. But, truly, what has learning to do with sending a man to the Legislature any way? Cheek has long since usurped the place of brains.

☞ The Republican State Central Committee, which assembled at Harrisburg, on the 4th inst., fixed on the 26th day of May as the time, and Lancaster as the place, for the assembling of the Convention. This is at least two months too early. What is the use of nominating candidates months before an active canvass is commenced? We supposed this would be the trick to head off any efforts of the square Republicans of the State to block the little game of the Ringsters.—Republicans, if you want to wrest the party from the hands of a set of men who have run it for their sole benefit for almost a decade, you must be up and doing.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

We are almost daily asked whether the prospects for the resumption of business are brightening or whether, on the other hand, we have really touched bottom? To these frequent questions we desire to answer, in a general way, from the standpoint which we occupy, that, in our opinion, the panic has touched bottom and that, on the other hand, with the opening of Spring will come a renewal of business and general diffusion of prosperity. Of course we can only judge from what we see around us, and, perhaps the best way to get at the matter is to judge from the resumption of the various prostrated industries immediately under our eyes.

It must be evident to everybody that observes that there is already a large demand for Broad Top and Clearfield coal. This employs a large number of miners and citizen operators. This demand for soft coal has increased the demand for railroad employees. The result is that a large number of our people are being employed, and consequently large quantities of capital are about to be distributed—much more than sixty days ago—throughout the county. This money passes through the hands of all classes of business men.—But it is not alone the Broad Top and Clearfield regions that are active at present, but the Cumberland region takes at least one hundred cars per day. These are hauled up and down by additional hands. The reader will no doubt ask what is the cause of this activity? We answer, it is owing principally to two causes—the scarcity of anthracite coal and the resumption of factories East that have been idle during the Fall and Winter.

In addition to the prospects which we have stated, we learn that the Kemble Coal and Iron Company has sold a large quantity of iron—though at a low figure, but fair profit—this will very likely lead to the putting of the second Furnace in blast, which will give employment to a considerable number of furnace-men and miners. This sale shows that there is beginning to be a demand for iron, at a fair price, and it can be manufactured, for a less figure, in this region, than elsewhere. The probabilities are that the Cambria Iron Company will also resume operations here again. The Rockhill Coal and Iron Company is already beginning to move, and we have no reason to doubt that, in the course of a few weeks, everything will be alive, at Orbisonia, and one, at least, of her furnaces, if not two, will be running to its fullest capacity.

In the upper end we hear that President Miller is determined to push the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad to completion, at least as far as Pennsylvania Furnace. We have a right to expect that in a short time that furnace and its attendant forges, will be in operation, employing a large number of men. Already Mr. Mumper, at Barree Forges, has gone to work, and in a short time Barree Furnace will be giving employment to many persons. We are assured that the second Furnaces, at Greenwood, will be blown in this month.

Taking all these facts together it looks to us as if, in a very short time, we would be doing something towards wiping out some of the severe traces of the the late terrible panic. Men, of course, cannot expect to realize the same wages that they received before the depression came, because manufacturers cannot command the prices for their products, but it is extremely doubtful whether the laboring men will not be just as well off in the end. Their money will buy just as much in proportion as formerly. Then cheer up, friends; there's light ahead! We rejoice heartily with you. There is no business that has been more severely depressed than the printing business, and we can therefore rejoice most heartily that business is brightening up. We have stood by the laboring man and the farmer through these many months and now we allude to the prospects ahead with great pleasure, because we have always done what we could to advance their interests. Throw up your hats and cheer!

SUMMARY.

	Forty-third Congress.	Fonrty-fourth Congress.
Republicans	49	41
Democrats	20	28
Independents	4	4
Vacancy	1	1

In accordance with the proclamation of President Grant, the new Senate met in special session in Washington on the 5th of March.

☞ The Pittsburgh Evening Telegraph of the 5th inst., says:

"It is stated that dispatches have been received in Washington from leading Conservatives of Louisiana, showing that forty-five of the fifty-two members of the Wiltz Legislature have signed the written agreement to the Wheeler compromise, and that others who would have signed it were absent from the city at the time. The document has been forwarded by mail, and the Committee will meet in Washington next week to proceed with the arbitration, the agreement being that the Election Committee of the Louisiana House will accept the decision of the Committee as to who are or who are not elected, and submit the same as their report. These dispatches also state further that public sentiment has been rapidly changing, and is now overwhelmingly in favor of the compromise; to quote literally, "the opposition have been routed, horse, foot and dragoons."

☞ The Johnstown Daily Tribune has adopted a new head after the style of the JOURNAL. It looks well and adds much to the previously beautiful Tribune. Four years ago the editor of this paper, while at the Type Foundry of Messrs. McKellar, Smiths & Jordan, Philadelphia, stated to the senior and junior members of the firm that he desired to purchase a new head for this paper, and said he wanted something very plain—no text. He pointed to the head of the Ashland Advocate. He wanted plain letter like that, but something smaller. The result was the present head of the JOURNAL. Since then it has been adopted by many publishers. The Tribune has just entered upon its third year and we are glad to witness this evidence of its prosperity.

☞ The Tyrone Herald, of last week, announces that Al. Tyhurst, esq., of this place, and formerly of the Huntingdon Globe, has been associated with the present editor of that paper in its publication, commencing the first of April next. Mr. Tyhurst has been writing for the Herald for a year or two and is, therefore, no new man, but comes into the family after long trial. He is a pungent writer and will, consequently, make a very readable paper. We wish him a splendid return for his labors upon the Herald.

☞ The Bounty Bill was not signed by the President, and consequently, if it had passed the Senate, as claimed by some of its friends, it would have failed. It will be some time before another bill passes. The Democrats are not in favor of this kind of equality.

Our New York Letter.

The Cause of Trouble—How a Really Rich Man does it—Mendicancy—Beecher-Tilton—Ice—Practical Benevolence—Business.

NEW YORK, March 8, 1875

THE CAUSE OF TROUBLE.

Thurlow Weed having lived eighty years in this world, has a why for almost every wherefore. Having given reasons enough for the troubles in the Republican party, he has undertaken, in a letter recently written, to show how we can return to specie payments, or rather why we do not come to it. He charges all our financial troubles to the extravagance of our women and children. He asserts that there are 10,000 ladies in New York whose costumes, when in full dress, cost at least $1,000 each, and that the same ladies fifteen years ago would have made quite as fine a show on $250 each. Also, that ten thousand children cost now from $100 to $150 each for dress, against $10 to $25 fifteen years ago. This is all very well, Mr. Weed, but how about the extravagance of the men. True it is that the goods used by the ladies all come from Europe, and that gold goes from here there to pay for them; but have the sterner sex no extravagances to answer for? How about boots at $20 per pair, made of imported leather? How about the thousands of young men, and old ones, too, who keep their measures in Paris, and who use up ten or a dozen suits per year, at fancy French prices? How about the French wines, the French brandies, and the French almost everything else that that class of men use, and use exclusively. How about the men whose cigars at 25 to 50 cents each, come from Havana, whose eating is half imported, and who go abroad so regularly to enjoy pleasures, which, thank Heaven, are not as yet acclimatized here.

The fact is, Mr. Weed, the men of New York, and of the country at large, are just as extravagant as the women, and if anything, more so; and when contraction is forced upon the country, both sexes will be compelled to give up their weaknesses.

AN EXAMPLE.

This terrible extravagance is not produced by the really rich men of the country. The richest of them live very simply. Daniel Drew lives as plainly as though he was worth less than some millions, and so does Peter Cooper. A. T. Stewart, the great merchant whose wealth has mounted up till he does not know himself how much he is worth, rides in omnibuses to and from his place of business half the time, and he has been seen on the box beside the driver of his delivery wagon. Of course he has carriages, but they are for use, and not display. One young man who failed for $400,000, but whose wife was conveniently endowed with a very large estate before the failure, remarked that Stewart was rich enough to afford to so ride.

THE BEGGARS.

The number of professional beggars who are now infesting the city is absolutely fearful. They haunt offices to a degree that makes life unbearable. Half of them make trade of some sort a pretext, carrying for sale such light goods as matches, blacking, &c., but the other half asks for alms without qualification. Sturdy men claim to be unable to get work and women have the usual story of sick husbands and children. Of course a very large per cent. of the professionals are foreigners, and very frequently the mistakes they make are funny. Let it be known that the manufacture of placards for beggars is a regular business and that the beggar can furnish himself or herself with any cause of distress that may be thought to be most effective. One boy who sits on Union Square, an Italian, who of course could not read English, displayed a placard on which was written: "This poor woman was left a widow with four small children." He displayed this placard two days when it was shifted to something more in accordance with the actual situation.

BEECHER-TILTON.

The great scandal case still drags its slow length along. The Tilton people rested the case with the testimony of Mrs. Moulton, and now Beecher has his innings. Mrs. Moulton was a surprise to everybody. Her testimony was clear and explicit against Beecher, and, besides, she is more difficult to impeach than any of the other witnesses. Beecher himself has put upon record his idea of her in more ways than one, and his statements of her absolute truthfulness must count terribly against him now. Evarts tried all sorts of expedients to find a flaw in her statement, but without avail. She was by all odds the most dangerous witness to Beecher that had yet been called.

The defence of Beecher will be, of course, what was foreshadowed in his statements last summer, viz: that the proceedure has been, first to last, a conspiracy arranged to extort money from him and to ruin him. He can take no other line without falsifying his previous statements. He may succeed in establishing this, but it is difficult at this writing to see how. Of course no one knows what witnesses he has, or to what they may testify, but it seems impossible that he should successfully break down Tilton, Moulton, the woman Carey, Richards, the brother of Mrs. Tilton, and Mrs. Moulton. But we shall see what we shall see, or rather hear what we shall hear. Let us all hope that justice will be done, and that the right ones will feel the scourge.

ICE.

In consequence of the warm winter of '73–4, the ice companies more than doubled the price of that very necessary article last summer; putting it entirely out of the reach of the poorer classes, and troubling those better off to have all they wanted. This winter has made such ice as has not been seen for years. The blocks are any thickness you want from 18 inches to four feet, and as hard and solid as granite. The question is, will ice be any cheaper? The supplying of the great city is, unfortunately in the hands of two companies, the Knickerbocker and Washington, and they own all the best fields near the city, which, with their splendid organization and immense capital, enable them to either buy out or kill all rivals. When other companies are started these grim monsters put down the price to below the living point until they are driven out, and then up it goes again. In this way they have managed to keep the trade in their own hands, very securely. The prices of last summer will be maintained if it is possible to do, for the ice companies have no more souls than the railroads, telegraph or express companies. The people will be compelled to pay the last cent that can be extorted from them, for they never did have sense enough to give opposition companies their support until they were able to stand alone.

PRACTICAL BENEVOLENCE.

The Young Men's Christian Association did a good thing the other day—one of the very coldest days of the winter. They made coffee, steaming hot and very strong, and deputized men to stand at convenient places and give it to the drivers of the street cars. The poor fellows, standing all day on the front platforms, exposed to the fury of the elements, found the mug of coffee not only grateful but useful. It did more to warm them than the lightning whisky they were in the habit of taking, and it is a pleasant fact to record that the next day the coffee shops were more freely patronized by the drivers than the whisky mills. Possibly the Y. M. C. A., desired to show them how superior coffee is to whisky. It was a good and thoughtful thing to do, at all events.

By the way, the car drivers have about the worst lives of any laboring men in the city. They work from 15 to 17 hours a day in all sorts of weather, and receive therefor the magnificent pay of $2.15 per day. And they take the chances of being killed by roughs, of freezing to death, and various other unpleasant things, is it any wonder that they strike once in a while? It is a shame that men should be compelled to work at such fearfully exhaustive labor so many hours for such insignificant pay, particularly when the corporations owning them are making money by the cord, but what can they do? They have to live, and should they all quit, their places would be filled in a day's time. There are too many men out of work in New York to enable labor to successfully dispute with capital. If the Y. M. C. A, could only induce the corporations to pay their men decently, they would do a greater work than the distribution of coffee.

still lags. The importers and jobbers are doing comparatively nothing, and the agents for home manufacturers are in the same condition; yet the feeling is more hopeful than it has been. The merchants insist that the stocks are nearly exhausted, that the people have money, and that they must have goods very soon. They all look for a revival of business in the spring, and for a thoroughly prosperous session. May their hopes be realized.

PIETRO.

WASHINGTON.

Closing Hours of Congress.

All the Appropriation Bills Passed—The Soldiers' Bounty Bill Laid on the Senate Table—Speech of Speaker Blaine, &c.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The closing hours of the Forty-third Congress were not characterized by any unusual excitement or scenes dissimilar to those on the last day of preceeding Congresses. All the appropriation bills were adopted, thus obviating the necessity of an extra session.

THE SOLDIERS' BOUNTY BILL

was also sent to the Conference Committee, and their report was accepted by the House, but when presented to the Senate, Mr. Sprague moved to lay it on the table, which was carried by a vote of 30 to 24.

FINAL ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE.

At twelve o'clock, Speaker Blaine brought down his gavel, and said:

Gentlemen: I close with this hour a six years' service as Speaker of the House of Representatives—a period surpassed in length by but two of my predecessors, and equaled only by two others. The rapid mutations of personal and political fortune in this country have limited the great majority of those who have occupied this chair to shorter terms of office.

It would be the gravest insensibility to the honors and responsibilities of life not to be touched by so signal a mark of public esteem as that which I have thrice received at the hands of my political associates. I desire in this last moment to renew to them, one and all, my thanks and my gratitude.

To those from whom I differ in my party relations—the minority of this House—I tender my acknowledgement for the generous courtesy with which they have treated me. By one of those sudden and decisive changes which distinguish proper institutions and which conspicuously mark a free people, that minority is transformed in the ensuing Congress to the governing power of the House. However it might possibly have been under other circumstances, than even necessarily renders these words my farewell to the Chair.

The Speakership of the American House of Representatives is a post of honor, of dignity, of power, of responsibility. Its duties are at once complex and continuous; they are both onerous and delicate; they are performed in the broad light of day under the eye of the whole people, subject at all times to the closest observation, and always attended with the sharpest criticism. I think no other official is held to such instant and such rigid accountability. Parliamentary rulings in their very nature are peremptory; almost absolute in authority and instantaneous in effect. They cannot always be enforced in such a way as to win applause or secure popularity; but I am sure that no man of any party who is worthy to fill this chair will ever see a dividing line between duty and policy.

Thanking you once more, and thanking you most cordially, for the honorable testimonial you have placed on record to my credit, I perform my only remaining duty in declaring that the Forty-third Congress has reached its constitutional limit, and that the House of Representatives stands adjourned without day.

Upon the conclusion of the Speaker's address, he was greeted with immense applause by the members on both sides, which continued for some minutes.

Don't Hack, Hack, Cough, Cough!

Cough is a symptom by which various diseased conditions of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs manifest themselves. But whether it arises from the irritation produced in the throat and larynx by taking cold, from an attack of Bronchitis, from incipient Consumption, or from various other causes, nothing will allay it more speedily or cure it more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does not matter whether it be a recent attack, or a lingering cough, the Discovery is in either case equally well adapted for its relief and permanent cure. In fact, it will cure a cough in one-half the time necessary to cure it with any other medicine, and it does it, not by drying it up, but by removing the cause, subduing the irritation, and healing the affected parts. No time should be lost in commencing the use of a proper medicine for the relief of a cough, for unless this course is pursued, serious and dangerous disease of the lungs is liable to result. Golden Medical Discovery is sold by all dealers in medicines.

Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscriptions and Arrearages.

The following is the law relating to newspapers and subscribers.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue their subscription.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills, and ordered them discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.
5. The Courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.
7. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

REDUCTION!

Until further notice, we propose to insert specials, or locals, in our local columns—not among the items, but distributed through the local matter—at TEN CENTS per line, eight ordinary words constituting a line. No charge, however, will be made for less than fifty cents. tf

The oldest inhabitant had never seen such a snow as was presented to view on Monday morning last.

The railroad people were completely blocked up on Monday morning. Iron and steam had to succumb.

The ground thaw, which began on Saturday morning last, made glad hearts among the poor and unemployed.

The Commissioners will, no doubt, raise money and take up the floating orders, when they meet on the 23d inst.

Deputy Sheriff, Ben. Miller, esq., says business is good. But, then, what is one man's meat is another man's poison.

Rev. M. P. Doyle, of the United Brethren Church, until further notice, will preach every alternate Sunday in Mount Union.

Harry Fisher it is who is going to erect an eating house opposite the JOURNAL Printing House. It is an excellent location.

Hon. Samuel T. Brown attended the meeting of the Republican State Central Committee, on the 4th inst., at Harrisburg.

"A Child Lost" fooled a good many of our citizens. No one, however, was disappointed when the performance failed to come off.

A good boarding house, for the accommodation of pupils who could be induced to attend the academy, is very much needed.

There was very little in the New York papers about the Beecher-Tilton scandal for last Sunday's reading, and it left an aching void.

An old lady, who believes she knows, says there are to be nine snows this winter yet, including the one on Sunday morning. Great Job!

Logan, the milk man, goes out to Judge Summers' plantation, on the Warm Springs road. He intends running the milk business stronger than ever.

Several days last week the Day Express was run in two sections. Evidently people are taking advantage of the low fares growing out of the railroad war.

Capt. Wm. K. Burchinell, Receiver of Public Monies for Colorado, if we are correctly informed, will have his headquarters at Fairplay, in that territory.

The funeral of Mrs. Josiah Cunningham was attended by a large number of relatives and sympathizing friends. The family has an extensive relationship.

Snow fell, on Sunday morning, so thick and blinding, that people began to imagine that we had been transferred, during the night, to the latitude of Siberia.

Mr. J. J. Read is the resident Superintendent of the Powelton Collieries, and is a very active business man, who will push things very lively about the mines.

The man who essays to do business and is not polite to all who visit him on business is not fit for the place. Be polite to everybody though they dress in rags.

Aubry Crewitt and John H. Wintrode, who spent the winter attending Medical Lectures, in Baltimore, Md., have returned home, looking as bright as newly burnished tinware.

Our friend Bookwalter, the watchmaker, has completed handsome and convenient quarters, on Mifflin street, adjoining S. P. Wensel's store. He now feels as "snug as a bug in a rug."

The Pennsylvania railroad is employing an additional number of track men. We hope that the Company will push the grading for its additional tracks during the coming summer.

One day last week a young man, from Mapleton, named Ainsworth, was hurt on the railroad at or near Tyrone. He is now lying at the residence of Mrs. Frances Myers, in this place.

We noticed a young woman along the street, on Sunday last, while the snow was coming down by the bucketful, without a single wrap and bareheaded. She must be as tough as a pine-knot.

The store of E. C. Summers & Co., on the corner of Fourth and Mifflin streets, was robbed, on Sunday night, of goods to the value of between three and four hundred dollars. A couple of persons have been arrested on suspicion, and are now in prison.

An indigent invalid mother, opposite the Jackson House, has a little girl to place in the hands of some benevolent person. It is a very sad case. We recommend her to the charitable.

On Monday morning snow was banked up, all along the street, to the height of five or six feet, and, strange to say, no borough official came around and directed the nuisance to be removed.

On Monday, of last week, there was a small wreck at Mt. Dallas, which might have proved a very serious affair had not some of the officials discovered the approaching disaster and saved themselves.

On Tuesday evening of last week, four cars were run off the track, at the foot of Fifth street, in this place, by the misplacing of a switch. No serious injury was suffered save the delay they occasioned.

"Dern it," exclaimed the junior editor of the Altoona Tribune, after reading half a dozen notices of his departure for Florida, "if the court knows herself, and she thinks she do, this child ain't gone yit."

The JOURNAL News Depot, opposite the post office, is beginning to supply the greater part of the news to the town. All the daily and weekly papers in the country furnished to order. Leave your orders at the JOURNAL Store. tf

The streets were mere canals on Saturday last. The extension of the sewer on Fifth street would help very much. At present, whenever it is soft, persons visiting the post office have to run the risk of drowning or mireing.

Houses are being much better filled, in Huntingdon, than was expected four weeks ago. It is extremely doubtful whether there will be any left tenantless. A judicious decline in rents has been attended with good results.

Graw's "nigger," the cast iron statue which has always adorned the front of his engine, holding out the signal of danger, was entirely demolished at the colition up near Mt. Dallas last week. He came out of the affair a "used up nigger."

The New York Herald, Times, World, and Tribune are retailed, at the JOURNAL Store, at 5 cents, on the evening of the day of publication. The morning paper can be had when the 5.35 train comes in each evening. Leave your orders. tf.

An anonymous communication has been directed to us, on the approaching Conference, which, even were it properly authenticated by the name of the writer, would still be in bad taste. We appreciate the difficulty, but it only comes once in a life time.

The New York Daily Graphic, the only illustrated daily paper in the world, is sold, at the JOURNAL Store, every morning—twelve hours from New York—at five cents per copy. Leave your order, and get a daily illustrated NEWS paper for five cents. tf.

Snow fell here during Sunday and Sunday night to the depth of twenty-six or twenty-eight inches. It was the greatest amount of snow which has fallen in a single fall for many years. On Monday morning everybody and everything was "Snow Bound."

The heavy snows, last week, enabled the boys to make considerable spending money, by clearing pavements. It was amusing to hear them speculating upon their probable investments, and to hear them disputing about the division of a dime or quarter.

The snow on Monday morning was too heavy for the boys. On an ordinary occasion citizens are annoyed to death for permits to clean their pavements, but on Monday morning the boys were not around. Not a bit of it. They had "sot" as the dutchman said.

Mrs. Josiah Cunningham, of this place, died at four o'clock on Tuesday morning of last week, aged 74 years. She was for many years a most active and excellent woman, and her many relatives and sincere friends are deeply afflicted at parting with one so highly prized.

"Huntingdon county has eight weekly papers," says an exchange. And we add, without intending to be discourteous, that there are just five too many! Some of them are being run at a dead loss, while others are barely making expenses, and only three of the whole that are really making any profit for their owners.

Some people think there is no pleasure equal to that of sleighing. And they will endure almost anything for a sleigh ride. Yet sometimes the vehicle takes a turn that is anything but pleasant. The three gay larks, who were upturned on last Wednesday night, and whose horses were not found for a day or two afterwards, no doubt thought so.

Our friend Jonathan Miller, esq., of Clay township, father of Rev. A. R. Miller, of Newton Hamilton, and Capt. D. Ross Miller, of Franklin township, will sell all his personal property, on the 25th inst., preparatory to emigrating to the far West. We are sorry to lose so good a citizen but wish him prosperity in his new field of labor.

In noticing the injury sustained by Dr. H. Orlady, last week, we should have added that Dr. H. C. McCarthy, of Petersburg, was immediately summoned to the bedside of the sufferer, and on the next day aided Drs. Miller and Brumbaugh in giving all the relief that surgical skill could afford. Dr. McCarthy is giving the after treatment, and reports very favorable progress.

Richard Langdon, esq., has leased the Cumberland Colliery for a number of years, and intends to develope the mines extensively.—Thos. Thompson, esq., of Coalmont, is his Master Miner and General Superintendent, and A. S. Brooks, his Bookkeeper and Dispatcher. Mr. Brooks has just left the employment of Robert Hare Powell & Co., with whom he had been engaged for the past ten years.

Will some one connected with the board of education, please inform us why the proceedings of that very august body are kept a secret? Certainly there is nothing that should interest the general public more than what is being done, from time to time, for or against our public schools. Come, let the people hear of your good works. Let us have a summary of the proceedings of each meeting made public.

On Tuesday evening, of last week, a surprise party invaded the premises of Mr. H. Greenberg, of this place, armed with carpet rags and showered them upon the good lady of the house until she was entirely overwhelmed. There were no less than fifty-two ladies and one gentleman present. The gentleman was an odd genius, and was equal to the occasion. Forty-one balls of carpet rags were found to be the result of the evening's contribution.

PUBLIC SALES.—The season for public sales is fast approaching, and we would remind those of our readers desiring any of this kind of printing, that we have superior facilities for executing it. We have a large and varied assortment of cuts, purchased expressly for illustrating sale-bills; also, an invoice of new type, embracing several different designs, for the same purpose; and we flatter ourselves that we can get up the neatest posters in this section of the country. Call and see specimens, before going elsewhere. tf.

FARMERS, LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST!—Your wives are wanting a good sewing machine. Now, Miller and Wilson will sell you a "Domestic" and receive in payment therefor all kinds of marketable produce, at the highest market prices. tf.

If you want pictures or chromos the JOURNAL Store is the place to buy them. tf.

"THE BAZAAR OF THE NATIONS" will open at Horticultural Hall, Philadelphia, on Easter Monday evening, March 29th, 1875. It will comprise a grand novel combination of entertainment, exhibition and sale and will continue until April 24th.

A wide avenue will extend the entire length of the hall, and on either side will be erected houses, accurately representing the following nations: Germany, France, Italy, England, Scotland, Russia, Sweden, Switzerland, Venice, Turkey, Syria, China, America, &c.—These houses will be so substantially constructed as to render them perfectly safe.—They will be supplemented with balconies, decorations, signs, banners, and draperies appropriate to their respective nationalities. In each house will be established a store or bazaar where ladies and their attendants, attired in the National costume, will offer for sale, rare, fancy and useful articles, mainly the productions of the countries they represent. The sale departments will be conducted on correct business principles, and arrangements have been made whereby all kinds of goods, serviceable or ornamental, may be procured at market prices through the various houses.

Entertainments of various descriptions will be given in day-time and evening. Curiosities from every quarter of the Globe will be exhibited. A cafe will form one of the attractions. Street scenes of remote lands will be introduced, and the languages of the world may be heard on the busy thoroughfare.—Every effort is being put forth to make the Bazaar the most attractive, interesting and instructive "affair" ever brought before the people of Pennsylvania and the adjacent States. The number of tickets issued each day will be limited to the capacity of the hall. Tickets of admission for special dates are now on sale at the office of the "Bazaar of the Nations," 811 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, where contributions for the Bazaar will be received, and any information relating to the Bazaar cheerfully given. A special invitation is extended to Huntingdon people to attend.

THE AMERICAN MIRROR.—We have received the first number of this new weekly paper. The publishers announce as its object "to supply the reading public with what is newest and of highest merit in the world's literature, in convenient, readable form, at the very medium of cost." Its beginning and its promises look well. This week Miss Braddon, who by a large portion of the reading public is considered the most brilliant and fascinating writer among living lady authors, presents a large installment of her story, "Hostages to Fortune." Next week a story by Wilkie Collins is announced to begin. Terms of the paper, two cents a week, or one dollar a year. It will be sent five weeks on trial for ten cents. Inducements are offered to agents and clubs. Address THE AMERICAN MIRROR, P. O. Box 4521, New York City.

DURING the changeable seasons of Fall and Winter, when Coughs and Colds are so prevalent, no person should be without some reliable preparation for their cure. They should recollect that a neglected Cough or Cold frequently terminates in consumption. Hasson's Compound Syrup of Tar is the best and most reliable article known for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Asthma, Chronic Catarrhs, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. No family should be without it. It is no private "quack" preparation; on the contrary, it is prescribed by some of the most eminent physicians in the county. Price 50 cents. Sold by J. C. Fleming & Co., Druggists.

P. S. See that the signature of Russel & Landis, Prop'rs. is on each wrapper. [f.10-6t.

ARRESTED.—We last week gave the particulars of the fatal burning of the children of Mr. D. B. Mellott, and then attributed the affair to accident. But it seems that there were circumstances connected with the occurrence which excited suspicion in the minds of the neighbors that all was not right, and the parents had perhaps contributed to the sad end of their unfortunate children. Those who best knew all the facts of the affair found these suspicions so strong that they believed it to be their duty to make information against the parents. This they accordingly did and they were arrested on Monday last, and lodged in jail. Whether this charge has any foundation in fact, it is impossible to say; but if it has it is of a nature almost too horrible to contemplate.—Fulton Democrat.

HERE IS WHAT A TAILORESS SAYS OF THE NEW AMERICAN SEWING MACHINE:—

ALEXANDRIA, February 22d, 1875.

Mr. J. H. Thomas—Dear Sir:—I thought I would drop you a few lines to let you know what I think of the New American Sewing Machine. Indeed I am delighted with it, and think that genius has reached her climax, as further improvement cannot be made. In fact threading the needle alone is all there is to be done. And time gained by the speed is at least one dollar in a week's work more than on any other machine in market. I think I ought to be a judge, for I have sewed on at least twenty-six or eight kinds, owned four, and used a shuttle machine for seven years.

Yours truly,

Mh3-3t. J. L. ALBRIGHT.

WHY does the "Domestic" Sewing Machine continue to have a ready sale while other machines are a drag on the market in these times of stagnation and panic? The answer is just here: Because all experienced sewing machine men, and everybody else acknowledge the superiority of the "Domestic" over all other machines. And people knowing its superiorities, and seeing its merits will buy it and the investment is one that pays and is never regretted. nov.4tf.

CARD OF THANKS.—The Ladies' Relief Society, of the borough of Huntingdon, take pleasure in acknowledging the receipt, from Maynard's Combination Troupe, of the liberal donation of seventy sacks of flour—amounting to over $50—for distribution among the poor of the borough.

[This is extremely liberal and deserving of the highest commendation.—ED.]

IT is a rare thing that physicians give any countenance to a medicine, the manufacture of which is a secret. About the only exception we know of is Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. This, we believe, all endorse, and many of them use it in their practice with great success.

PERSONS requiring purgatives or pills should be careful what they buy. Some pills not only cause griping pains, but leave the bowels in a torpid, costive state. Parson's Purgative Pills will relieve the bowels and cleanse the blood without injury to the system.

BE sure and call for Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup if you are troubled with a bad Cough or Cold. It will give you relief. For sale by every respectable druggist. One bottle 25 cents; five bottles for $1.00.

Twenty five cents will pay for the DAILY JOURNAL during the session of Conference at this place. If any of our contemporaries will mention this fact, we will be pleased, as a slight return for the favor, to send it to them during its publication. tf

LITERATURE.

A Legend of the White Hills, and other poems. By Mrs. V. G. Ramsey. 12 mo., cloth, $1.25. D. Lathrop & Co., Boston.

The Morning Star, in speaking of Mrs Ramsey's poems, says that "they have other attractions than those given them by the tasteful setting supplied by the publishers—D. Lathrop & Co. They are full of elevated sentiment and graceful expression. One detects at once the presence of the keen eye that looks into the heart of things, the artistic instinct that seizes upon what is beautiful, and the real gift of lyrical speech that puts poetic thought into musical words. Her songs in various keys never lack sweetness, and she rises as she sings and tends to lift the spirit of her reader with her. It is a very pleasant volume of poems that she has given us, and if they lack the fire of passion, one never misses the breath of pure wholesome sentiment."

Overland Monthly.—This excellent magazine still continues to maintain its well-earned reputation. The February number for 1875 commences with a well-written account of the naval duel between the Kearsarge and the Alabama,—the second paper of a series. John H. Carmany, & Co., San Francisco, Cal. $4.00 per year, or 35 cents per number. For sale at the "Journal" Book and Stationery Store.

Lippincott's Magazine.—The early numbers of this enjoyable magazine for 1875 give evidence of the determination on the part of the publishers to place it in the front rank and maintain its position there. When the Centennial Celebration arrives, in Philadelphia, all the world will then behold the home of the rival in beauty and attractiveness of all the beautiful and attractive periodicals of every land. We commend it generally, and the March number, as being specially attractive, and filled with most valuable information.—J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia. $4.00 per year, or 35 cents per number. For sale at the "Journal" Store.

Scribner's Monthly.—So great has been the demand for this popular monthly since the commencement of the new year, that all the numbers of the present volume—the 9th—commencing in November last, have been exhausted; and it has been, for some time past, out of print. New editions of the January and February numbers, of which the demand was unexpectedly great on account of containing the early chapters of Dr. Holland's new serial—the Story of Seven Oaks, and Major Powell's Colorado Papers—have already been republished, and the others will soon follow. This magazine has met with unequaled success, and it well deserves its great popularity.—$4.00 per year, or 35 cents per number. Scribner & Co., New York. For sale at the "Journal" Store.

Eclectic Magazine.—In the field of periodical literature in America this great monthly occupies a position peculiarly individual. Men and women of culture and great intellectual development, are its patrons, and find in its pages food for thought and improvement.—Among the contributors to the March number we notice the names of Thomas Carlyle, who gives the opening chapters of "The Early Kings of Norway," Julian Hawthorne, Prof. Huxley, Prof. F. W. Newman, etc. The number is embellished with a fine steel portrait of Prof. Joseph Henry, of the Smithsonian Institute. E. R. Pelton, 108 Fulton st., N. Y., $5 a year. Single numbers 45 cents. For sale at JOURNAL Store.

The Atlantic.—This fine literary magazine still maintains its old reputation, having lost nothing by the change in publishers—Cambridge maintaining quite as healthy a condition as Boston. The March number contains contributions from Mark Twain, David A. Welles, Jules Marcou, F. B. Sanborn, Henry James, jr., N. S. Shaler, W. J. Hoppin, J. J. Pratt and others, giving a pleasing variety of meritorious articles. Those who read the Atlantic regularly form a strong attachment for it, which is evidence of its worth. H. O. Houghton & Co., Boston, Mass., $4 a year.—Single numbers 35 cents. For sale at the JOURNAL Store.

Philadelphia Cattle Market.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Beef Cattle—In the better grades there was some disposition to operate at about last week's figures, but the want of supplies of these descriptions restricted the business within very narrow limits. Other kinds were difficult to move, and the tendency of prices at the close was rather in favor of the buying interest.—Sales of common at 4@5c; fair to good at 5½@6¾c, and choice at 7@7¾c. Receipts, 2,100.

Philadelphia Produce Market.

MONDAY, March 8.—Seeds—In clover seed there is no movement worthy of notice. We quote Pennsylvania at 8¾@9¼ per pound. In timothy nothing doing. Flaxseed is wanted by the crushers at $4.90@5.

Bark moves slowly at $34 per ton for No. 1 quercitron.

Cotton is held with confidence, and we notice sales of middlings at 26⅝@26¼ c. for upland, and 17 for New Orleans.

There is a steady inquiry for flour from the home consumers, and holders are firm in their views, but shippers are not exporting to any extent. Sales of 1,600 barrels, including superfine, at $3.50@3.75; extras at $4@4.50; Wisconsin and Minnesota extra family at $5@6, the latter rate for fancy; Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana do. do., at $5.25@6.25, and fancy brands at $6.50@7.50, as in quality. Rye flour is selling at $4.75. In corn meal no sales.

There is a fair inquiry for wheat from the local millers and holders are firm in their views. Sales of 2,400 bushels Pennsylvania and western held at $1.20@1.24 and same do. amber at $1.28. In rye nothing doing. Corn is fair, but there is less doing. Sales of 3,000 bushels yellow at 81@82c. Oats are steady at 67@69c. for western white and 66c. for mixed. In barley and malt no sales.

a permanent home, where every manufacturer can exhibit and sell his goods, and every patentee can show his invention; a centre of industry which will prove a vast benefit to the whole country.

For this purpose, the Legislature of the State of New York has granted a charter to a number of our most wealthy and respectable merchants, and these gentlemen have purchased no less than eight blocks of the most valuable land in the City of New York. The building to be erected will be seven stories high (150 feet in height), surmounted by a magnificent dome, and will cover a space of 22 acres. It will be constructed of Iron, Brick and Glass, and made fire-proof. The bonds, which are all for $20 each, are secured by a first mortgage on the land and building, and for the purpose of making them popular, the directors have decided to have quarterly drawings of $150,000 each; this money being the interest on the amount of the whole loan.

Every bondholder must receive at least $21.00, but he may receive

Potato Disease.

The report of the Potato Disease Committee of the British Royal Agricultural Society has been recently published. It will be recollected that three years ago Earl Cathcart offered a prize of £100 for essays on the prevention of disease. Although no fresh practical information was elicited, and it may, perhaps, be said no direct good came from this well-meant offer, the Society took the subject up and offered prizes for potatoes reputed to be proof against disease. Two prizes were offered for the commencement of this year, for potatoes of varieties already known, and two are to be awarded five years hence for varieties that may be produced by cultivation before the period. Six different varieties were sent in, one ton (twenty bags of one cwt.) of each. The Society arranged to have these practically tested. Twelve stations in England, four in Scotland, and four in Ireland were selected, and one cwt. of each variety sent for planting, of these so-called disease-proof potatoes. During the Summer the botanic referee of the Society visited all the localities, and in all cases disease was found. Much valuable information is likely to arise from the statistics that have been collected, for although it seems that no indication is given of how the disease can be prevented, under certain conditions, principally influenced by moisture, its effect is but small.—New York Observer.

About Sick Animals.

Nearly all sick animals become so by improper feeding, in the first place. Nine cases out of ten the digestion is wrong.—Charcoal is the most efficient and rapid corrective. It will cure in a majority of cases, i properly administered. An example of its use:—The hired man came in with the intelligence that one of the finest cows was very sick, and a kind neighbor proposed the usual drugs and poisons. The owner being ill, and unable to examine the cow, concluded that the trouble come from overeating, and ordered a teacupful of pulverized charcoal given in water. It was mixed, placed in a junk bottle, the head held upward, and the water and charcoal poured downward. In five minutes improvement was visible, and in a few hours the animal was in pasture eating grass. Another instance of equal success occurred with a young heifer which had become badly bloated by eating green apples after a hard wind. The bloat was so severe that the sides were almost as hard as a barrel. The old remedy, saleratus, was tried for correcting the acidity.—But the attempt to put it down always caused coughing, and it did little good.—Half a teaspoonful of fresh powdered charcoal was given. In six hours all appearance of the bloat had gone and the heifer was well.—Ex.

Poultry Parasites.

Fowls are infested with several kinds of parasites. There are lice of sufficient size to be readily discoverable, which are found either beneath the wings or upon the head and neck, and very small mites or acari which infest sitting hens so much as frequently to make them leave their nests, and which also swarm plentifully in the houses and upon the roosts. The specimens received are of the latter class. They hide in crevices of the nests or houses during the day, and at night sally forth to feed, which they do by puncturing the skin and sucking the blood of the fowls.—There is no difficulty in getting rid of all these pests. They thrive in filth and avoid neat quarters. If you will thoroughly cleanse the floor of the poultry-house, lime-wash the walls, filling up all the cracks with lime, and removing all loose boards and cleats, and thoroughly smear the perch, with lard and kerosene oil mixed, so that the fowls' feet and feathers will be well greased, you will very soon be relieved of the trouble. Where these lice and mites are very numerous and infested fowls are kept close to stables they will gather upon horses and cattle and greatly trouble them. Cases have been known in which horses have died from the irritation thus produced. For this reason poultry should not be kept in stables.

Collecting Material for Manure.

This work is always of prime importance, and, from now until spring should receive the attention it deserves. Offal of all kinds, leaves and mold from the woods, marsh and muck, cotton seed; in short, all materials of every character that can by de composition, be made to increase the compost heap, should be from time to time collected and piled in some convenient place for use next spring. You will in this way vastly increase your plant food. It is folly to plant an acre in corn unless it is fertile enough to produce thirty bushels; it is a still greater folly to plant an acre in cotton that will not produce a bale of 500 lbs. With a little care and attention this winter, each farmer may collect enough manure to enrich a few acres of land, and we will guarantee if he once commences the good work, he will be so pleased with it that he will continue to improve his land. All the cow lot manure should be scrupulously collected and piled under shelter. A good plan for forming the manure heap, is to put a layer of horse or cow manure, then a thin layer of cotton seed, then a layer of woods mold, and so continue the heap until it is of a convenient size. In the spring you will have a large pile of the very best manure suitable for any crop.—Farmer's Vindicator.

HOW TO DRY OFF COWS.—The quickest and best way of drying off a cow so that she may immediately fatten, is to feed her four or five quarts of dry cornmeal daily, and all the dry wheat straw she will eat. Two weeks of this diet, milking so as not to let the udder be injured by over distension, dried off an Ayrshire cow that could not be dried off in any other way.

POWDERED CHALK, added to common glue, strengthens it.

VEGETINE

PURIFIES THE BLOOD, RENOVATES AND INVIGORATES THE WHOLE SYSTEM.

Its Medical Properties are

ALTERATIVE, TONIC, SOLVENT AND DIURETIC.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully-selected barks, roots and herbs, and so strongly concentrated, that it will effectually eradicate from the system every taint of Scrofula, Scrofulous Humor, Tumors, Cancer, Cancerous Humor, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Syphilitic Diseases, Canker, Faintness at the Stomach, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. Sciatica, Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout and Spinal Complaints, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For Ulcers and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Pustules, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter, Scaldhead and Ringworm, VEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

For Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Dropsy, Female Weakness, Leucorrhœa, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases and General Debility, VEGETINE acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs; allays inflamation, cures ulceration, and regulates the bowels.

For Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the heart, Headache, Piles, Nervousness and General Prostration of the Nervous System, no medicine has ever given such perfect satisfaction as the VEGETINE. It purifies the blood, cleanses all of the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

The remarkable cures effected by VEGETINE have induced many physicians and apothecaries whom we know to prescribe and use it in their own families.

In fact, VEGETINE is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable BLOOD PURIFIER yet placed before the public.

FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.

BOSTON, December 17, 1872.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir.—May I ask the favor of you to make my case public?

In 1861, while on picket duty in the army, I was taken with a fit, which lasted all night. Was taken into camp and dosed with whiskey and quinine. After this had fits every day, and was taken to the Newbern Hospital, and there treated by the attending physicians. I grew worse and was sent home. Remained in poor health for four years, treating with many physicians and trying many remedies. Finally Scrofula made its appearance on different parts of my body, and my head was so diseased as to be frightful to look at, and painful beyond endurance. After trying the most eminent physicians, without improvement, a change of climate was advised.

Have been to the Hot Springs in Arkansas twice, each time giving their treatment a thorough trial. Finally came back to Boston, discouraged with no hope of help. Life was a burden to one in my situation. My disease, and the effect of so much powerful medicine, had so damaged my system that the action of my stomach was apparently destroyed, and my head was covered with ulcers which had in places eaten into the skull bone.

The best physicians said my blood was so full of poison they could do no more for me. About this time a friend who had been an invalid told me VEGETINE has restored him to perfect health, and through his persuasion I commenced taking VEGETINE. At this time I was having fits almost every day. I noticed the first good effects of VEGETINE in my digestive organs. My food sat better, and my stomach grew stronger. I began to feel encouraged, for I could see my health slowly and gradually improving. With renewed hope I continued taking the VEGETINE, until it had completely driven disease out of my body. It cured the fits, gave me good, pure blood, and restored me to perfect health, which I had not enjoyed before for ten years. Hundreds of people in the City of Boston can vouch for the above facts.

VEGETINE has saved my life, and you are at liberty to make such use of this statement as pleases you best, and I beg of you to make it known, that other sufferers may find relief with less trouble and expense than I did.

It will afford me great pleasure to show the marks of my disease or give any further information relative to my case to all who desire it.

I am, sir, very gratefully, JOHN PECK,

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABE.

FREE FROM ALCOHOL.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflamation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the Blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tubucular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is affected.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use Vinegar Bitters as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

THE

IRON

A FEW REASONS
WHY THE ARION PIANO
IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS:

The ARION PIANO-FORTE has greater power than any other Piano-Forte manufactured.

It will Stand in Tune Longer, and in its mechanical construction it is more perfect, and, therefore, more durable, than any instrument constructed in the usual modern style.

The arrangement of the Agraffe, the manner of stringing, the peculiar form and arrangement of the Iron Frame

SUPERCEDES ALL OTHERS

The use of a bar (which is a part of the Iron Frame on a line with the heavy steel stringing,) gives where most needed, and in this respect all other pianoes fail.

The construction of the WREST PLANK, into which the tuning Pins are inserted, is such that it is impossible for the pins to come loosened, or the Wrest Plank itself to split, as is too often the case in other Piano-Fortes.

The Extraordinary Evenness

throughout the scale, the excellent Singing Quality, the

LENGTH AND PURITY OF VIBRATION,

all go to prove what we claim, viz: that the

ARION PIANO-FORTE

Is the Best Instrument Manufactured.

ALSO

ESTEYS COTTAGE ORGANS,

THE NE PLUS ULTRA OF

universally acknowledged to be the BEST Organ made for Sunday Schools, Churches, Parlors and Lodges.
